Myopia is associated with reduced distance vision without optical correction and can be a limiting factor in occupational choices. This session describes examination, treatment, and posterior segment changes in the myopic eye. While hyperopia has been overshadowed by myopia in the public perception, vision research, and scientific literature, it is a greater risk factor than myopia for potential permanent vision loss. The role of accommodation in both conditions will be presented. To expand the subject, the relationship between decreasing amplitude of accommodation, hyperopia and presbyopia is examined.

All hours are approved by the ABO/NCLE, the Tennessee Board of Dispensing Opticians and Georgia Board of Dispensing Opticians.

NOTE: Due to increased participation, the Cleveland hours will be offered in March and September.
